Workshop Description:

In this workshop we'll learn to integrate movement and music in ways that enhance musicality and reinforce musical skills. For pre-school and primary students, we'll learn adapted folk dances. For older students, we'll explore processes that insure success when creating original movement. A Border Morris stick dance will be taught and Bucket drumming will round out the day. Will we move when we drum? Of course!

Kris Olsen has taught music and movement for 29 years in private, public, rural and urban settings. Kris has her master's degree in Orff Schulwerk from the University of St. Thomas. She studied dance at Zenon Dance Company while living in Minneapolis and now lives in Lubbock, TX, where she is a member of Flatlands Dance Theatre and Caprock Morris. Kris has taught dance at Texas Tech University and currently teaches early childhood music and a "Musicality through Movement" class.
